

Five of the best travel books

Compiled by Jen Kelly. gear@newsLtd.com.au

In Love in France $39.95, Hardie Grant

FROM "Paris's phallus" (the Eiffel Tower) to the Moulin Rouge, to a cemetery that's a "whimsical place for a lovers' stroll", Rhonda Carrier leads us on a richly detailed journey through France's most romantic spots – brought to life with stories of passionate affairs among the rich and famous. Perfect for honeymooners, with details of romantic art exhibits, gardens and chateaus.

Where to buy: Bookshops from tomorrow.

Remote & Wild $165, Fine Focus Press

FOR 19 years, photographer Richard Green and his wife, Carolyn, have used their private helicopter as a "flying campervan" to visit and photograph some of Australia's most remote sites. The result is this stunning coffee-table book filled with big glossy photos of landscapes, rock formations and wildlife, the couple's own fascinating story and even a "beginner's guide to heli-camping".
